Dear Mr. Dunkin:

It has come to my attention via the internet that you are looking for a popular music critic. I have over a decade of experience. I was a regular columnist for an "alternative" weekly, the Welcomat (now known as Philadelphia Weekly) eventually becoming music editor and later associate editor. I also wrote columns for two other regional papers in addition to other free-lance work for such papers as the Philadelphia Inquirer.

In addition to writing, I also did copy-editing for the Welcomat for four years and was also the production manager for over a year.

I have been involved in music and in writing in several capacities my entire life. I have interviewed several major and legendary artists both for print and radio where I produced several documentaries on music.

Enclosed are some clips, a list of musicians I've interviewed and my resume. For a recent example of my writing, you might want to check out my story on BobDylan.com, a site cited by People magazine this week as one of the best on the web.

Thank you for your consideration. I look forward to your response.

Sincerely,

Peter Brown
